The reaction of [CF₃S⁻][PF₆⁻] with these electrophilic nucleophiles is followed by a complex reaction mechanism. For a better understanding of the ¹³C-NMR spectra of the CF₃S⁻-containing reaction system, we have performed theoretical studies on the relative stabilities of the CF₃S⁻ anion in different types of [CF₃S⁻][PF₆⁻] complexes. The results indicate that the CF₃S⁻ anion is first stabilized in a doublet quintet CF₃S⁻(+)[PF₆⁻] complex and then undergoes charge transfer to give CF₃S⁻(+)[PF₆⁻] as a zwitterionic diradical anion. Both of the CF₃S⁻-containing reaction systems have been examined using the high-field NMR (HF-NMR) technique and the results are discussed. We also studied the reaction of [CF₃S⁻][PF₆⁻] with CH₃OH in the presence of [CuCl₂(CH₃CN)₂]. You are not being taken seriously. You are not listening to us. You are not looking at us. You are not being seen. And, most of all, you are not being heard' - Gypsy Rose Lee I have just come back from the annual meeting of the Association for Healthcare Systems Improvement (AHSI) in Vancouver. The meeting is a fantastic opportunity to hear how other people are taking and learning from the initiatives that are being put into place across the NHS in England. The conference is organised into one morning of plenary sessions, morning and afternoon workshops, evening 82157476af
